In my family, my Dad usually does the shopping. He drives to a supermarket and buys all we need. At the weekend, Mom goes with him. When he goes alone, in the evening after work, there is a problem. When he comes out of the supermarket, he can't find his car. There are too many cars near the supermarket. Dad can't remember where he has left his car. I have read about this problem in a magazine and told him, "Put a piece of paper on the antenna of your car. When you come out, you will see a white flag on your car". The next time when he went shopping he did it. When he came out, he saw the car with a white flag... but there were ten others cars with the same white flag!
